ACADEMIC CUSTOMS AND DRESS

The origins of many customs of the academic world are to be traced to the Middle Ages, particularly the eleventh and twelfth centuries when the first European universities – Bologna, Paris, and Oxford — were founded.

In their original organization, the universities were like medieval corporations or guilds. In fact the word “universitas” originally referred to any kind of corporation. The students at the universities were equated to guild apprentices, and so the completion of the apprenticeship was celebrated by a “commencement” marking the beginning of their careers.

In the twelfth century, everyone wore gowns. The social and economic status of an individual was shown by the extra features, such as fur trimming, on the gowns. Cloaks with hoods were worn over gowns for protection in bad weather. Degrees began to be awarded in the thirteenth century, and different styles of gowns and different colors came to represent the various degrees and disciplines.

Over the centuries the styles of dress changed, and by the seventeenth century, the wearing of gowns by men had virtually ceased. But the universities, particularly those in Britain, continued to be conservative and strict in the manner of academic customs and dress. At Oxford, for instance, candidates for master's degrees had to swear that they owned a gown and would always wear it at the proper times.

The first American universities were founded on English models. However, the wearing of academic dress was not universal and ceased during the Civil War. The custom was revived in the late nineteenth century, and in 1895 an academic custom code was adopted which, with modifications, is still used.

Most American universities have the standard black gown with the hood serving to distinguish the individual institution. Some American and European universities have adopted or preserved more distinctive gowns. There are three styles of gowns, distinguished mainly by the sleeves; the bachelor's gown, with long, pointed sleeves; the master's, with a squared sleeve, cut so the forearm is free; the doctor's, with bell-shaped sleeves with three velvet bands.

The hood is the really distinguishing feature of modern gowns, indicating the degree (the width of the edging band), the discipline (the color of the band) and the college or university (the colors of the lining). Today's graduates have hoods edged in white (B.A., M.A.L.S.), gold (B.S., B.L.S.), or light blue (M.S.). Many faculty members will have blue edging indicating the Ph.D. degree. The faculty will be wearing hoods representing many distinguished institutions of higher education, e.g., orange and maroon for Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, maroon and white for the University of Chicago, red and black for Rutgers University, and navy blue and orange for the University of Virginia.

FACULTY EMERITUS

Faculty members who have served Mary Washington College for at least 15 years and who have attained the rank of professor or associate professor are eligible upon retirement to be considered for emeritus status. This honor, by action of the Board of Visitors, is bestowed this year upon five distinguished members of the faculty.

Clavio F. Ascari Professor of Italian

In 1965 Clavio Ascari first came to Mary Washington College on a Fulbright fellowship, having received his Dottore in Lingue e Letterature Moderne from Università Bocconi. Following further studies he returned to MWC in 1970 to build the College's Italian program, a task that through the years has involved offering over 15 different courses, crafting special majors in Italian, teaching multiple individual studies courses each semester, and supervising diverse international experiences for his students. He was influential in the creation of a summer program in Urbino, Italy, which became the prototype for subsequent programs established by the College in Mexico, Germany, and Spain. A scholar of exceptionally broad interests and expertise, he has published three books, as well as numerous chapters, articles, and reviews, covering a range of time from ancient Rome to post-World War II, and authors as diverse as Dante, Boccaccio, Leopardi, and D'Annunzio; in addition, he served for nine years as editor of Il Giornalino, a monthly publication for language teachers. His excellence as a teacher has been attested through such honors as a Distinguished Service Award from the prestigious International Institute of Education in 1999; the Grellet C. Simpson Award in 2001 for excellence in teaching at MWC; and a Distinguished Faculty Achievement Award from the Virginia State Council of Higher Education in 2002.

Stephen L. Lipscomb
Professor of Mathematics

Stephen L. Lipscomb earned his B.A. degree from Fairmont State College, M.A. from West Virginia University, and Ph.D. from the University of Virginia. He joined the mathematics full-time faculty at Mary Washington College in 1983, having worked for 16 years as a successful research mathematician for the Naval Surface Warfare Center Dahlgren Division. Within a year of arriving at MWC, he was appointed chair of the Department of Mathematical Sciences and Physics, as it was then known. During his nine years as chair, he not only presided over the enhancement of the quality of the mathematics area, but also encouraged and supervised the establishment of separate departments of physics and computer science. A prolific scholar both before and during his tenure at Mary Washington, Dr. Lipscomb's wide-ranging expertise included his 1996 work, Symmetric Inverse Semigroups, as part of a prestigious series of the American Mathematical Society, and numerous contributions in the area of topology. Despite his extensive research activities, his primary focus remained upon teaching, and his success in that endeavor is attested by the subsequent attainments of his students at the graduate level.

Carol S. Manning
Professor of English

Carol Manning received her bachelor's degree from Delta State College and her Master's degree from the University of Kentucky, followed by her Ph.D. from SUNY-Albany. After several years on the faculty of Virginia Tech, she joined the Mary Washington faculty in 1982, originally to teach journalism and literature courses. Since that time, in addition to shouldering an extremely heavy load of teaching and committee assignments, as well as chairing the Department of English, Linguistics, and Speech for two and a half years, she has made a permanent imprint upon the College's academic program by conceiving, launching, and maintaining the acclaimed Writing Intensive Program – a model of its kind, widely emulated throughout the country. A prolific and respected literary scholar, she has written a book on Southern author Eudora Welty and edited another on The Female Tradition in Southern Literature, in addition to numerous articles and reviews. An esteemed teacher, Dr. Manning has been recognized at MWC as both a Jepson Fellow and, in 1996, as the recipient of the Simpson Award for Excellence in Teaching. Beyond the campus, she has been a Fellow in Residence at the Virginia Center for the Humanities and in 1990 received a State Council of Higher Education Award for the quality of her teaching.

Robert L. McConnell
Professor of Geology

Having earned his B.S. and M.S. degrees in geology at the University of Tennessee and his Ph.D. in geology at the University of California, Santa Barbara, Robert McConnell was on the faculty of the University of Tennessee, a researcher at Virginia Tech, and a lecturer at the Open University in England prior to joining the Mary Washington faculty in 1981. At the outset of his career at MWC he alone was responsible for sustaining the geology major as the only full-time faculty member in the discipline, teaching an extraordinary range of courses including physical geology, evolution of the earth, mineralogy, petrology, oceanography, structural geology, sedimentation and environmental geology. Increasingly focusing his research interest on environmental issues, he has published numerous articles on water resources and the environmental impact associated with energy consumption and population growth. The co-author of two widely used textbooks in the fields of geology and environmental science, Dr. McConnell has earned a widespread reputation for his commentaries that have appeared in newspapers throughout the United States.

William Ray Pope
Associate Professor of Psychology

William Ray Pope joined Mary Washington College's Department of Psychology in 1981 as an Instructor, having earned his B.S. and M.A. degrees from Middle Tennessee State University. He was promoted to the rank of Assistant Professor in 1982 after receiving his Ph.D. degree in Experimental Psychology from Virginia Commonwealth University. Upon achieving the rank of Associate Professor, Dr. Pope left the department in 1985 in order to assume the administrative position of Associate Director, and later Director (in 1987), of Academic Computing, an area that was quickly becoming increasingly important in the academic lives of students and faculty. In 1990, he became Assistant Vice President for Instructional Technology and Computing, a position he held for two years before being appointed Acting Assistant Vice President for Assessment and Institutional Research. Finally, in 1992, Dr. Pope was appointed Assistant Vice President for Planning, Assessment, and Institutional Research, a position he held until his retirement earlier this year.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

THE HONORABLE WILLIAM J. HOWELL

William J. Howell, a native of Virginia, earned his undergraduate degree in Business Administration from the University of Richmond and his Juris Doctorate from the University of Virginia School of Law. Having been first elected to the House of Delegates in 1987 to represent the 28th District, he has served in the General Assembly for 16 years, including chairing the House Courts of Justice Committee and the Virginia Code Commission. In January, 2003, he was sworn in as only the second Republican Speaker of the House of Delegates in the modern history of the nearly 400-year-old institution.

Speaker Howell is chairman of the Joint House and Senate Rules Committee, which decides administrative policy for the operations of the General Assembly and agencies within the legislative branch. As presiding officer of the House of Delegates, his responsibilities include assigning bills to the committees, moderating debate on the House floor and ruling on questions of parliamentary order. He appoints the chairs of all standing House committees and the delegates who serve on them, and is also charged with naming lawmakers and citizens to a variety of state boards, commissions and other government entities.

In 2001, the American Legislative Exchange Council honored Speaker Howell as "State Legislator of the Year." He is a former director of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce; a past president of the Fredericksburg, Stafford and Spotsylvania Chamber of Commerce; a former president and campaign chairman of the Rappahannock United Way; and a past vice-chair of the board of directors of Mary Washington Hospital. He currently serves on the Board of Directors of Virginia Heartland Bank and the Moss Free Clinic. A devoted student of history, he is also a member of the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation, which is organizing Virginia's 2007 observance of the 400th anniversary of the founding of Jamestown, the first permanent English settlement in America.

Speaker Howell practices trust and estate law in Stafford County, where he lives with his wife, Cessie. They are the parents of two sons and have five grandchildren.

THE EAGLE PIPE BAND

Performing at today's commencement ceremony is the Eagle Pipe Band. The band was formed in 1997 with a small combination of Mary Washington College students and members of the Fredericksburg community. It has grown steadily each year, adding pipers, drummers, and dancers.

Of special interest, and great pride, the Eagle Pipe Band was founded by, and is under the direction of, Dr. Raymond B. Scott, Chairperson and Professor of Chemistry at Mary Washington College. Performers at today's ceremony include students at Mary Washington College as well as members of the greater Fredericksburg community. The tartan worn by performers was designed by the College to match the school colors, and is registered in Scotland's official registry of tartans.

ALMA MATER

All hail, dear Alma Mater,
We sing our praise to you.
High on Marye's Hilltop
You stand forever true;
Born in truth and honor
You ever more shall be,
The model of our future years
And all eternity.

Whene'er we have to leave you
We never will forget,
The lessons you have taught us,
And all the friends we've met;
And we your sons and daughters
Will hold your name on high,
So here's to Mary Washington;
Our love will never die.
